We have obtained some information relative to the condition of Governor Brough.

The carbuncles that developed themselves some ime after he received the injury in his right foot, and which seriously afflicted him, have ncet entirely disappeared, and there are no ndications of further trouble ln this regard. His left hand, which was so much affected as to equire repeated incisions, has nearly recovered. But the disease in the injured foot seems to have been progressing, until it now threatens the ankle joint. On last Wednesday evidences of gangrene were apparent in a portion of the ot not previously affected in this manner.

At a consultation of surgeons on the followng morning, it was determined to make more tensive incisions than had yet been made. The operation was at once performed, and ou readers may form some idea of the suffering ending it when we state that in the various earts of the foct not less, in the aggregate an sixteen inches of deep incisions were made. For an hour and a half following, the pain wa dinost more than the patient sufferer could en-lure, but it finally subsided, and by the middle the afternoon he had rallied and was comaratively comfortable, in which condition he

As these victories have finally crushed the armed opposition to the general Government, and have brought back the whole of the national demain under the folds of our first trust that this anniversary of the nation's birthday will be the opening of a new era in cur history—when brotherly love will again prevail between the people of the once contending sections—when all the causes of the late war shall have disappeared—when the idea of secession shall be regarded entirely as a thing of the past, never again to be revived—and during which we shall become a stronger, more united, and more prosperous astion than ever before.

I most elincerely note with you in the feelings of sorrow and indignation which have been so universally expressed for the cowardly murder which deprived the country of its Chief Magistrate, and in the decire to affird the most loyal support to his successor. I trust, too, that you will unite with me in the bope that, since we have completely vindicated our national strength and military honor by the entire defeat and ruln of our late enemies, our people will pursue a magnanimous and mereful course toward a fallen foe—one that will tend to soften the hitter feelings inevitably caused by a long and carnest war and to restore the confidence

AN OLD CITIZEN. STURGEON.—The London correspondent of the New York Citizen has the following picture of the birth, manuers, and style of the great London preacher, as he appears at the Metropolitan Tabernacle npon the Spirrey eide of the Thames, an edifice 145 feet long, 90 hroad and 82 feet high, plairly furnished with pine pews, without pulpit or choir. Two galleries encircle it, one above the other, and as great a congregation can sit behind the preacher as many city churches will hold entire. Spurgeon's flock consists of npwards of two thousand, mainly trader-proprie, mechanics, and other humble felks, but there is a sprinking of strangers from all pations around the gates—French, Germans, Italians, Americans—and none of these barbariars are allowed to enter unless provided with "orders." Such a voice you never heard off the "sump." or as they say here, the "hustings." It is not a sweet volce, but that is because he rounds no periods and pauses to make no cadences. He 'linea' the hymne, that is, reads two lines at a time, so that all may sing; and while the linmense mass of heads rise up to fill the place with thunder, we may study the face and figure of the preacher. He has that description of clerical phiz which I might denominate "greasy." His cheeks and chin are smooth as a boy's, and very fat and closely set—or, as some would say, all of a lump. Over a rather narrow forehead sweeps a quantity of straight, blackish brown hair, which vanishes behind his ears; bis menth is large, his nose inclined to be "srub," and his eyes are jet black and hillously dup with fire and intelligence. This smooth, is trace is encircled by a stilf, white staneing coller, wrapped with a white neckeloth, and he wears a simple black snit, without watch guard, or any ornament whatsoever.

Standing thus upon the shelf of the lower gallery, he takes out a scrap of paper containing the notes, and launchee into the reading. He needs a verse and makes a quantity of crisp, old

KID GLOVE MANUFACTURES—In the south of Eugland there is an extensive manufacture of kid gloves, Yeovil being its center. Three and skypence is paid for seaming the back of a dozen kid gloves; the stitcher, who is obliged to stoop to the machine and place her eyes very near her work, can only live by working twelve hours a a day. In one case the stitcher worked from six in the morning until eleven at night, to earn five and skypence a week. "It was lamentable," says D.: Edward Smith. "to see children from nine to fourteen years of age kept at this employment during the whole day, seeing nothing of the world around them, and cut off from the aminements and exertion so natural to children, and so necessary at the period of growth. The reedle-women of London did not impress my mind so unfavorable as the stitchers of gloves at Yeovil, since the former were, for the most part, in middle or advanced life, whilst here were children, or young women, who were consuming their health and losing the pleasure of life for the harest pittance."

New Albany, Ind., August 5.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

The appearance of the harvest between Lafayette and New Albany may be safely taken as a basis for estimating the products of Indiana this season. The wheat crop was very light compared with last year, and considerable of the grain yet in shock has been damaged by the secent leng-continued and heavy rains.

Notwithstanding all this the reports now coming in from the threshers are more favorable than were expected. The aggregate yield of wheat may be safely set down at three-severable of last year's count. To this must be added the amount of old wheat on hand, and the important statement concludes that there is now in this State a much larger amount of wheat for market than was sold last year, and that the granaries of this State are as abundantly filled as the currage for the past pire years.

The oats crop will yield a full average. The hay was injured by the rains, but of this important staple there will be a large excess over the short crop of last year.

Fruits will be sufficiently abundant, and potatoes promise a remunerative yield. The high waters have probably damaged to a considerable extest some of the flux tibed and the bottems of the two White rivers and their tribuarles, but on the nplands and the bottems not overflowed the corn never looked were promising. On the prairies and in the great corn section generally the crop will probably be beavier than it has been for many years. If corn mannes well it may be safely estimated as the largest cop Indiana ever produced.

The gentlemanty officers of the Louisville, New Albany, and Chicago rallroad make a trip over this road exceedictly pleasant. Conductors Hail, Bently, and Medutoch, of the through trains, cannot be surpassed in urbanity and politeness. Each year makes very decided improvements along this line of road, giving cherring promise of a prospectous future for Western Indiana. without it. A highly interesting and very important case of slander was before a Pittsburg court on Monday. A gentleman had charged a lady with calling him a "bastard," and she had, accordingly, been arrested. The lady averred that the charge was false, as she had only said he was a "dastard." The two words are so similar in sound that the judge decided that he could not decide. The lady was therefore discharged.

Major-General Rousseau, by his brilliant success on Monday, has astonished his oppoments and given many of his friends an agree able surprise. His majority is greater than cither party expected. Indeed the anti-amendment party, up to Monday afternoon, would have bet almost any odds npon his defeat, Still he himself was all the while confident; indeed he was not less confident in the cause of the right than be was in 1861, when he took measures to raise a Kentneky brigade and entered upon the military career which resulted Few know what difficulties General Ronsee had to meet and encounter when he began his canvass. True, he was a favorite of the people, but his position in regard to the Constitutions Amendment was most unpopular. The proposed measure, advocated by him, was whollnew to most of the voters and against their education, their habits of thought, and all their prejudices. When he went into the counties, no matter in what direction, he of course found himself received warmly and admiringly as a man and a warrior; but, if he talked abou the Constitutional Amendment, those around him opened wide their eyes, shook their heads, and gave him to understand that it was impos eible for them to support him. But he believed that he could overcome their opposition, and he went heroically to work, and, to a very great extent, succeeded. It was not long before he announced to us and to his other friends that he should be elected.

A very large portion of the honor of electing the gallant Rouseesu belongs to the Germans and the Irish. No other candidate ever got such a German and Irish vote as his. The Germans went for him all but unanimously, and the Irish who did not vote for him were exceedingly few. He is deeply grateful for the noble service done him by both, and he will never forget it. A hundred efforts were made to turn them against him, but they stood as sirmly up for him as ever he himself stood in battle. They were proof against arguments, proof against entrest pof against promises, and proof against reats. All conceivable devices were used against him with them as well as with others, and money was freely lavished, but all proved of no avail. Mr. J. M. Armstrong has been known in the city long and well as an enterprising business man and an infinential member of the City Council. He became a candidate for the Legislature from no political ambition, but only in from the friends of the Amendment in the Third District. He will prove no lesse true as a legistafor than he has ever been in the capacity of a practical business man.

The Representative of the banner ward of the city is Gen. A. M Stout, and most worthly will be represent that intelligent and patriotic district. Gen Stout demonstrated his manly character amid the fire and steel of the recent war, and the brave men who proudly followed in his wake can never forget his heroic bearing upon the field of Chicksmangs. The Fourth istrict, in giving a large majority to Gen. Stout, paid a tribute which was richly deserved by one of the noblest Kentucky soldiers.

Louisville will be finely represented in the next Legislature. Van Seggern, Bijor, Armr, and Stout, will be devoted to her hou and her interests.

The lately published volume, "The Secret Service, the Field, the Dungeon, and the Escape," gives a tolerably correct account of the course of Kentucky and her leading men in the early stage of the rebellion, but contains unpar donable errors upon the subject. It save:

Now this, so far as our paper is concerned, is not true. There's not a syllable of truth in it. The Journal did not, for a day or an hour, deride Rousseau's effort to raise troops at Camp Jee Holt, in Indiana. We did not make even the faintest allusion to it, except to encourage and vindicate it. We insisted that the enlisting of volunteers in a sister State was no violation whatever of Kentucky neutrality. Men who write books should be a little careful ac to their facts.

The race in the Second Ward for the Legelature between Martin Bijur and our friend and neighbor, J. Hop Price, was very close the former, a sound, able, and eloquent man, winming by only thirty-one votes.

Mr. Price was, in our view, on the wrong aide, but he made a most gallant and vigorons contest. He is a clever gentleman, and we hope he will have more happiness out of the Legislature than he ever expected to have in it.

The hopes of those who sought in monarchy the repose which the Republic desied them have been disappointed; the national dignity has been contemned; justice derided; our holy rights trodden under foot; thought enslaved; prosillution elevated and virtue villied; the sanctuary draped in monrhing, and the Church sillitered with tribulations. Terror is seased in the castfold, brandishing over the patriots the knife of extermination.

With nervous eloquence he thus refers to the

this young gentleman, son of our distinguished fellew-chizen Professor Heury Miller, intends acticing medicine and entgery in Louisville We are giad to be able to make this annuncia lon. Dr. E. Miller, although his years have been few, is a most thoroughly-educated physician and sorgion. He has had all possible advantages, and has made the very best use of them. He has an extraordinary aptitude for medicine and surgery, and to that he has added all that he could gain, under the most favorable circumstarces, from study and practice. His profes sional (ducation has been built up most solidly on a most solid foundation. Young Dr. Miller, like thousands of other as dent and misguided young Kentuckians, went into the Southern Confederacy after the breaking out of the rebellion. His mission however was not to kill but to heal. He filled a very high place in the medleal and surgical corps of the armies of the Confederacy, and his reputation as a practitioner was unsurpassed. He was the peer of the oldest and greatest of his professional brethren. He was regarded as a orcdigy. He performed many hundreds of est-class operations, always jndicions, always old, always skillful, and, in nearly all cases, We congratulate our fellow-citizens that Dr

the prostrate man five times in the left breast. Believing Gregory to be dead, Miller went back to Shelburn. A countryman in a wagon passing near the spot of the attempted assass!ation heard noises and recognized them as the groans of a man. Being afraid to go alone to him, he got a neighbor to go with him. When they found Gregory he was able to speak. and told them what had occurred. One of the men remained with Gregory, and the other is going on. The belief is that the whole plot mounted a wagon horse and rode in great haste is hatched by former slaveholders, with a view to the village. He informed the citizens of the affair, and they turned out in a body and canght | the regrees. Miller in the town. With some difficulty they ceeded in tying his hands and carrying him back to the scene of the outrage. Mr. Gregory distely recognized him as the man who had attempted to murder him. One of the most comisent citizens procured a rope, tied it around Miller's neck, and proposed to the excited crowd to hang him without further delay. A sapling was bent down for the purpose, and, whilst the top was being trimmed, Miller very coolly took a chew of tobacco. A magistrate, who was present, remonstrated against lynch-law, and begged that the accused should be turned over to the civil law. Out of respect to the magistrate, the request was granted, and Miller was led to town with a rope around his neck. The news of the affair spread rapidly over the ounding country, and quite a large and excited crowd soon gathered at Shelburn, and con-cluded to hang Miller. They took him to the edge of town and hung him on a tree; after he had hung half an hour, he was cut down, and his body and carpet-sack were put luto a box and burled. The train that Miller expected hour behind time, and, while he was waiting for it, he was arrested. He had, two weeks before his death, stolen four horses from the vi-

A volume of npwards of five hundred pages, entitled the Secret Services, the Field, the Dungeon, and the Escape, written by Albert D Richardson, an accomplished war cor-respondent of the New York Tribune, has been haid before us. It is of course full of interesting adventures and experiences, and it will no doubt be read with avidity by all into whose hards it may fall. Mr. Richardson is a fine writer, and his opportunities have been numerous and great. The agent of this work, Mr. J. H. Wilson, is now in our city, furnishing subscribers with the book and receiving the names of new ones.

We had the pleasure, yesterday, of meeting the gallant Lieutenant Garretty, formerly of this city, who came all the way from Springfield (Iil.) to cast his vote for his old command er, General Rousseau. Lieutenant G. did good service here in raising volunteers, and he acted a noble part all through the war. He was in Colonel Curran Pope's regiment under Rousceau at Chaplin Hills, where he was badly wounded, and he rode "all redly" other battles. It is probable that he will be transferred to the regular service.

A soldier, we will not say whether Federal or Contederate, was swiftly pursuing a solitary foe, when the latter suddenly turned and raised his weapon. It is wonderful how much ingenuity is Ruded and effort made to evade the paym n of Government taxes and internal revenue. Th ommissioner of Internal Revenue at Washing on receives daily a large number of specimen ip by the various collectors and assessor matches alone there are dozens of evasive spe menspiesented. One received a few days ago is a louble-ender maich, nearly twice as long as the dinary match, with each end dipped in the hosphoric mixture. The consumer breaks each of these double enders in the middle, and he has two maiches for one. The tax is one cent for all packages of not more than a hund e By the double-ender system the dealer pay about half the Government tax intended by the law. Another ingenions evader gets up large packages of thin blocks about three inches long and of the length of matches, one edge being dipped lu the phost-horle mixture. These blocks e denominates kindling-wood, and informs the unrehaser that if he desires to use them natches, he can do so at any moment by whit tling them off the kindling-wood. It is scarcely necessary to say that by the the terms of the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Rev enne, these evaders are compelled to pay the henest tax required by law. Heretofore troops that have been mn State capitals for final payment and discharge The order of the War Department telegraphed General Sheridan, however, which anthores him to muster out In Texas such troops as c thinks can be dispensed with, contains the following significant clause: "The muster-out discharges and payments will be made under the regulations promulgated in general orders, xcerd that officers and men who desire to re e their discharges and payment at the renzvons where mustered out will be permitted o do so." The meaning of this will be readily understood when it is remembered that such o these men as might desire to aid the Liberais in Mexico are thus placed at liberty to do so, and with the privilege of retaining their arms, and are virtually furnished free transportation to the very spot where the Mexicans may nee heir services. The Department suggests that probably many of these men, at any rate, wis settle along the Texau frontier.

Additional particulars of the horribic tragedy at Menchester, Conu., have already been given. The son and brother of the victims s confessed himself their murderer. He gave as an excuse for the crim nat he wished to get possession of his mother's oney, in order to obtain the consent of the father of the young lady to their marriage. Strong evidence is mentioned as indicating the OURBEC, Angust 8.

Parliament assembled this evening. In the speech from the throne the Governor-General said he had called Parliament together at the earliest convenient moment after the return of the Canadian delegation from England, in order to receive a report of their mission and complete important business. The correspondence referring to the mission will be laid before Parliament for consideration, and he hopes ere long the other Provinces will adopt a scheme for a federal mion of the Provinces. The happy termination of the American civil war, which has lasted for four years, cannot fail to exercise a beneficial influence on the commercial interests of the Provinces, and we may trust that the re-establishment of peace will lead to a constant lucrease in the developments of friendly relations between our people and the citizens of the ons between our people and the citizens of rited States. The circumstances which defed it necessary to place a volunteer lorce of the frontier having ceased to exist, that force has been withdrawn.

Filast evening an attempt was made to kidnap George N. Sauders and carry him over the lines. The conspirators offered a detective named O'Liary $1,000 to assist them He agreed to do so, but warned Sonders and the police. In carrying out his appavent compileity, he ladneed Sanders to get into a carriage, and they drow out to the suburbs, when they were attacked by ite kidnappers, and Sanders was gagged and O'Leary thrown out of the carriage. On approaching the toll-gate, the police in ambush sprang upon them, released Sanders, and captured two of the kidnappers, Carlos Hean and W. A. Brins, who say they are detectives. Shots were freely exchanged with the police. Another kidnapper was captured this morning.
